G. A. Peed Named Receiver of Bank of Saint Cloud

Telephone communication with the Comptroller's office at Tallahassee late this afternoon brought the news that G. A. Peed had qualified as Receiver of the Bank of Saint Cloud, and his official appointment would be made as soon as necessary legal bond was filed with the Comptroller. Mr. Peed is one of the directors of the new bank being organized, and has agreed to serve in the capacity of Receiver without pay, in accordance with the plan recently made with the depositors of the defunct bank.

ST. CLOUD DEFEATED WINTER GARDEN FRIDAY

Friday afternoon saw the first test of the football that Professor Holts has been instilling into his squad from the high school and the result was exceedingly satisfactory from the St. Cloud point of view. While the score was close it does not measure the superiority of St. Cloud over Winter Garden, the latter team making but one first down during the afternoon.

The local team were a bit wobbly in the first quarter due to nervousness but in the second session this was off, and after a series of plays worked the ball to Winter Garden's twelve yard line. Here Winter Garden held and it seemed for a minute or two as if the effort would be in vain, but throwing all out and dried football strategy to the winds St. Cloud started a run around the right which resulted in Wheeler's sliding over the line in the extreme corner of the field for the first and only touch down. With the wind blowing hard against him Johnson missed a goal by inches only.

In the second half the ball sawawed back and forth with St. Cloud the aggressor most of the time, and in the last quarter the boys were well on their way to another score when time was called.

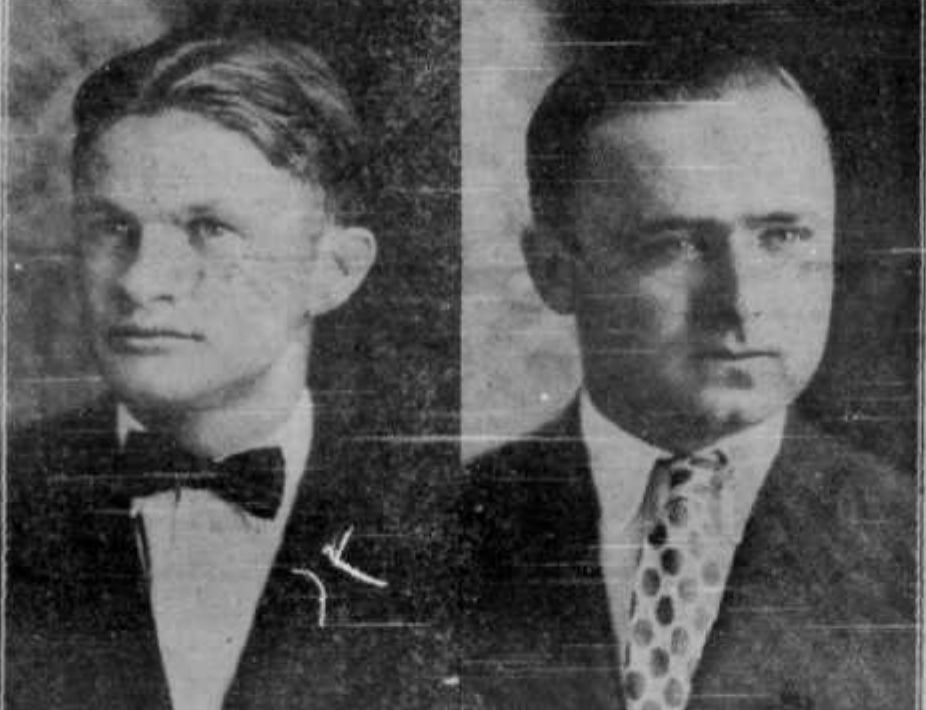

St. Cloud judging from its preliminary showing will have a team this year that will rebound to the credit of the city. Signals should be perfected and undoubtedly will be with a little "shell" practice, and while on the subject of signals it is recommended that they be covered a bit more than they are at the present time.

The line charged hard and more than once secured the opposition before they could get started while the secondary defense was exceptionally good. On offense St. Cloud seemed to be better on slice off tackle, while on swinging end runs Johnson showed up well as did Wheeler. There were other players who should be mentioned but unfortunately the writer does not know their names and cannot do so. Later in the season when the features are more familiar, it will be possible to give more detailed accounts of the play as well as the name of the player making it. Practically the last of the afternoon deserves special mention. St. Cloud had shown nothing much in the normal offense, but suddenly Johnson let go a perfect pass to Wheeler over the right side of the line. It was well timed and perfectly executed.

The officials did all that could be asked of them, and there were no questions raised as to their fairness or ability; they were Referee Faine, Empire Rankin, Head Linesman Guelwin. The score by quarters follows:

No story of the game would be complete without a word of praise for the rooting. Led by Miss Dorothy George it had a pep and swing to it that would put many a larger institution to shame. St. Cloud always has had a reputation for rooting and from the way things on the side lines are starting out this season will be no exception to the rule.

Wild Life Is Now Plentiful in Florida, Although Becoming Extinct Elsewhere

Frank E. Brimmer is Associate Editor of Field and Stream, a staff correspondent for the sporting pages of The Chicago Daily News, author of several outdoor books published by Macmillan and Appleton, and a free lance writer of regular outdoor sports articles appearing in The Saturday Evening Post, The Country Gentleman, The American Motorist, The Woman's Home Companion, The Outlook, and other leading publications. He has written the scenario and titles for various outdoor moving pictures "Riding the Ridge of the Rockies," "Wild westing Wyoming," "Way Down Upon the Suwannee River," etc.

To collect material for stories from first hand observation, Mr. Brimmer, whose home is in Chicago, is now on a six months motoring trip covering approximately 10,000 miles and taking him into every section of Florida. Among other things he is making a careful study of the influence of the motor car in getting people interested in outdoor sports in Florida, and spending a major part of each year in touring popular scenic regions and playgrounds, what he says about that part of Florida he has now covered is well worth filing.

Among other things, Mr. Brimmer came to Florida especially to round out a story he is doing on order for the American Magazine, to be entitled, "Human Nature on Vacation," and he is finding this peninsula one of the most fertile fields for studying the influence of the outdoors on human beings.

By FRANK E. BRIMMER

Florida has something more valuable, if that is possible, than real estate, industries, and agricultural opportunities.

This asset, which can never be measured in money, is Outdoor Life. Everybody in northern climates, if given their choice, would invariably prefer perpetual summer to constant winter, and mainly for the reason that snow and ice imprison everyone but the most robust physically, housing them into artificial, man-made quarters through a major part of the year.

Most folks take to summer climates like the butterfly goes toward the light. The love of the outdoors and outdoor sports is instinctive.

Wild Life Disappearing
Work or play, outdoors is not only more healthful, but likewise more enjoyable, where the climate is clement. In the last few years I have become personally acquainted with tens of thousands of people on outdoor vacation trips, letters have come from other thousands, so I know the heart of the outdoorsman rather well. And Florida is exactly the place for him.

Within the last few months I have been over some of the best known game fields and vacation lands of the country, and almost everywhere I am disappointed. The antelope and bison are all but gone, elk and moose and deer in the West are badly handicapped by the encroachments of civilization, the black bear has been pushed out of half his habitat and the grizzly is a show animal in some of our National Parks. So is the wild goat and sheep. Recently I went over what was once fine ruffed grouse country, two thousand acres of it, when I was a boy in New York State, and found in a whole day's hunt only a half dozen birds. In many regions restocking of game and artificial propagation of fishes is going on rapidly. The China pheasant has had to be put down in many regions to make any kind of shooting where quail and partridges once thrived.

Plenty Game in Florida
But here in Florida I have actually been surprised with the abundance of game and fish. It seems to me that with the countless acres of coverts that will always remain, and with the rapid natural increase of wildlife under this prevailing balmy climatic condition, Florida is the future sportsman's paradise of America.

The other morning I was awakened, by appointment, at six o'clock. Six thirty found me packing inside a breakfast of country sausage such as we used to make on a backwoods farm when I was a boy, country eggs, hot-cake and cane syrup. At seven-fifteen we were in a "picker" patch and the bombardment began as soon as we could see the doves coming in to feed at sunset. Even the Minors, who had never shot a shotgun in her life stood her ground through two whole boxes of Remington Dove Loads fired through the hot tube of a pump gun at erratic winged doves. That night a dove dinner, to which a dozen newly-made friends were invited, was an event never to be forgotten.

And quail hunting in Florida, well, it is the finest I have ever enjoyed anywhere. Within surprisingly short distances of Ocala we have followed the finest bird dogs that any could desire to locate every covey. Half the time we never looked for singles, which might have increased our bag. To my way of thinking, the finest sport in this region is walking pineclads, through dog fennel, and scrub oak, after bob-whites. But then, I have not been able to find the time to try turkey shooting with Shorty Davidson—that might alter my views.

Marion County Leads

One might not think of Marion County in central Florida as much of a hunting region, but the latest available reports show that this county led all others in the number of hunting licenses issued.

I had read with deep interest the various accounts of large mouth black bass caught in Florida, but never did I suspect that they were half as true as I have found them to be. At Orange Lake and in the Silver River, while here, I have had some of the best fresh water sport ever enjoyed.

It is a wonderful sportsman's paradise, easy to reach by fine motor highways, plenty of game in field and stream, accessible so that the women in the family become eager outdoor enthusiasts. I must admit that on our Silver River trip, aided and abetted by one Carl Ray, my wife landed more bass than I. But, no matter who caught them, they were fit for the king's table when broiled by Shorty right on our boat over a Coleman gasoline stove.

That is Florida's ace card—outdoor sports. Getting out into the open spaces, brushing away mental cobwebs, tuning up sagged nerves, hardening soft muscles. Few people are really happy unless they can work and strive to achieve something; but often this has been carried too far. Florida outdoor life is the solution. A solution that is becoming recognized by physicians all over the country merely from the health angle, and as it is paramount in importance as land sales, engineering projects, and building operations.

Springs Are Plentiful

No lover of the out-of-doors can fail to enjoy Florida's living fresh water springs, so unique to this remarkable country. In Marion County there are a dozen large springs, of which, likely, Silver Springs, Orange Springs, Silver Glen Springs, and Juniper Springs are most important; but the outstanding marvel of them all is that Underwater Garden of the Ginnie-Silver Springs.

Pouring into the atmosphere like waters of Silver Springs, through forty or fifty or sixty or seventy feet of pure water, surging from the heart of mother earth at the rate of one-third of one million gallons every minute—sufficient to supply every person in the United States with five gallons of pure water per day—from porous and cavernous Vicksburgian limestone, carrying calcium carbonate with a peculiar bluish tinge, one views an airplane-like view of an aquatic fairyland. This is one of the outstanding natural marvels, if not the outstanding natural wonder, in Florida. Here one can verily see nature at work. The views range from mountains and valleys, forests and deserts, tropical under-water jungles and submerged forests, to mountainous snow scenes, inverted waterfalls with rainbows, miniature geyser and boiling point pots that rival a Yellowstone park, and through it all, as one hovers over a perfectly transparent depth that creates the feeling of being suspended in thin air, there swim in countless numbers schools of fishes and awkward turtles.

Sport Lovers Paradise

As never before Americans are turning to the outdoor life. They find they can work better for it. And they discover that they get far more out of living. The motor car has linked high pressure business and professional life with outdoor sports; one balancing the other. Central Florida, for that matter the entire state from what I have seen and can learn—I expect to see it all—offers better opportunities to the average man and many of means, for real beautiful occupation and sport in an all-year outdoors climate than any place this side of Elysium.

FLORIDA LAND VALUES KNOWN 100 YEARS AGO

JACKSONVILLE.—That the high value of Florida land was appreciated at the beginning of the Union is shown in an item appearing in the first issue of the Detroit Gazette which carries the date line, "Detroit, Michigan Territory, July 25th, 1817." Under the heading of "Florida," it says: "The subject most talked of here is the probability of a speedy cession of the Floridas to the United States. That it will take place everyone believes and that belief is strengthened by the fact that the Spanish authorities in those provinces speak of such an event as certainly about to happen; and the residents holding land anticipating its increased value when annexed to our government, demand for it a high price."

Found in Ohio

The copy of the Gazette containing this item was sent to George T. Sharp of Jacksonville, a member of the staff of the Florida Exposition Company, preparing to send throughout the country this fall five all-Florida exhibit trains. Mr. Sharp says a friend found the paper among old packing cases in a small town in Ohio.

Mr. Sharp's journalistic curiosity is similar to the size of the papers of old days, about 17 by 11 inches, set in four-column measure and in what appears to be plain and heavier type. It is in good preservation.

Being the first issue it has some announcements that in the light of present day publications are of interest. Published by Sheldon and Reed, it also carried advertisements of this firm's books on sale and the line of stationery and school supplies carried in their shop. The statement is made that the place of publication is "in Atwater Street a few rods above the public wharf." As to subscriptions the annual rate is announced at $4, while those who get their papers by mail and who pay in advance may have them for $3.50. There is also an item that those who get their papers at the office "often or more" had to pay 5 cents a copy.

Terms Were Cash

Nearly the entire front page is taken up with advertisements, the most prominent being for merchandise varying in items from all varieties of women's dress goods to darning needles, men's furnishings, hardware, powder and soap. These enterprises also announce brandies and wines, adding to the list ginger, snuff, tamarinds, black lead, lamp black, lime juice and a great variety of articles, "all of which will be sold for cash."

One merchant, D. McKinstry, heralds a fine display of "40 barrels of whiskey, 10 barrels of pork, 80 maces of sugar, six dozen Castor and Roman hats, 1,000 pieces of domestic southern ware, 40 tons of handsome building stone from Cleveland, a general assortment of tinware," adding that "any orders for southern or tinware can be answered on short notice from the factories at Grand River in Ohio; also for sale 100 pairs of Newcomb pantaloons and roundabouts."—Tampa Tribune.

MOST WIDELY READ OF FAMOUS AUTHORS' NOVELS ON SCREEN AT POPULAR THEATRE

Following in the wake of such phenomenal picture successes as "The Girl of the Imberlost" and "The Keeper of the Bees" comes what is perhaps the most widely read of all Mrs. Gene Stratton-Porter's novels.

The untold host who admire the work of this great author, the most popular writer of American letters, will welcome with open arms P. B. O's Gold Bond production of "Laddie," which will be seen for the first time in this community at the Popular Theatre on Monday and Tuesday. Nothing Mrs. Porter ever wrote is more relevant to that great tolerant understanding of spirit, that wholesomeness and that warmth of human sympathy which was so tragically snatched from the world when an unfortunate motor accident in Los Angeles snuffed out the genius that made countless millions love her and still for the pen that for seventeen years had been turning out yearly at least one important contribution to literature and happiness. "Laddie," as J. Leo Meahan, Mrs. Porter's son-in-law has developed and directed it, throbs with interest and drama, not to mention a high quality and quantity of comedy relief. Boss Flowers, David Torrence, John Browne, Little Gene Stratton, granddaughter of the famous writer, and half a dozen other sterling performers give splendid interpretations of the roles assigned to them. Mrs. Porter's daughter, Jeanette Meahan, adapted the original novel to the screen.

FLORIDA THIS WEEK

Blaze of the hurricane are being cleared away, storm swept areas and Florida will soon be herself again. The Red Cross has taken hold in every part of the state where their services were needed and should be given co-operation and help by the citizens. Florida is usual has given money and supplies for the sufferers and the entire country has responded in a manner that has touched the heart of Florida people.

The late storm that swept the lower Florida peninsula from East to West, taking its toll of life, and destruction of real and personal property; also played havoc with the citrus crop. Fruit that was not blown off the trees was thorned by the swaying branches and if possible wherever the fruit is ripened it will have to be shipped at once. Lee county is arranging a plan to ship this fruit by express, the markets to have full knowledge of the quality of the fruit, thus eliminating the chances of breaking a good market early in the season.

In the flooded area around Moore Haven, where according to population, the people suffered more than at Miami, the town of Moore Haven has been evacuated and it is still under water. Many of the negro laborers and their families have been absorbed by other communities, the Sanford section alone taking more than one hundred of them. The white farmers are loathe to leave their homes at Moore Haven but unless the water is drained off at once they will be obliged to farm this season in some other locality.

A feat that will go down in history of catastrophes is the work of the Utility companies in the storm area. Florida Light and Power company with lines and plants down the East Coast suffered severely. The towers at the water plant in Miami, blown over by the storm, smashed in the roof of the electric plant that furnished current for the City of Miami. The turbines were also under two feet of water and situated amidst a tangle of wreckage and a prostrate city, the case looked almost hopeless. But the men in charge at Miami thought differently and gathering men from all their other plants in the state, transporting them by truck and train three thirty-five hundred men into the breach and in two-day's time had the business portions of the city ready for service. They progressed from day to day and within a week had many of their lines working in Miami as well as other sections where the storm had played havoc with their equipment.

According to the monthly business review of the Federal Reserve the three basic trades, groceries, dry-goods and hardware, show a comfortable land in August over July with a mighty fine increase in prospect for September and October, not even storms keep Florida down and we keep on "keeping on."

More than a million more barrels of cement were used in Florida during the first seven months of 1926 than for the same period in 1925, according to figures given out from the office of State Geologist in Tallahassee. This demonstrates that some building is going on in Florida.

Six thousand more farmers will be needed in Florida every year for the next five years if Florida is to keep abreast with its increase in population by a similar increase in agriculture, according to Clifford R. Hyatt, county agricultural agent of Marion county. Now let the newspapers of Florida play this on their "piano." "We need more farmers."

A TEACHER'S CONFUSION OF FAITH

The following confusion is from a former superintendent of a school and we believe is a good creed for all teachers:

I BELIEVE THAT:

1. Every normal child can grow into a creditable, Christian citizen.
2. Inspiration is better than instruction.
3. The test of a teacher is in hand.

Cross that threshold and I shoot!

"Miami in 1928" To Be Slogan of Florida Legionnaires at Philadelphia

The Florida Legion for some time has been campaigning to bring the American Legion National Convention to Miami in 1928 and a little thing like the recent storm will not be allowed to interfere, as is attested by a bulletin sent out by State Adjutant Howard Royston of Palatka under date of September 26, which reads as follows:

"The enclosed invitation from Harvey Payne, chairman 1928 convention committee, proves just one more thing about the Florida Department.

"That Florida may be temporarily down but she ain't out by any means. "We want that 1928 convention and we want it bad."

"And as a Miami paper stated Tuesday morning: "One thing about Miami she never does anything by halves even when it comes to having storms. She had a storm that was a storm."

"When Miami entertains the Legionnaires in 1928 no one will ever know that there was a storm in Miami."

"When you come to Miami in 1928 you will see just what the Miami Legionnaires and their Auxiliary can do. I have seen what they could do this week."

"Harvey paints you a word picture of the good time that will be had by the Legionnaires that visit Miami and Miami will keep their word and will entertain you and entertain you like you want to be entertained."

"Any time any city can have a storm like Miami has had can certainly entertain a bunch of Legionnaires at a convention.

"Miami is the Play Ground of America, and she will always remain the Play Ground and, we want you to get set to come and play with us in 1928, and we will try to show you just what Legion Spirit is and where we live it, and where we die it."

"Two fellows, who owned a small filling station that had everything except the pumps blown down by the storm, had a sign out a couple of days after the storm that read like this: "Open for Business" We are going to live and die in Miami and We dam near die."

"That is the spirit that you Legionnaires that visit Miami in 1928 will find."

"Another thing we don't want any of these other towns that are out after the 1928 convention to think that Florida and Miami have quit wanting the convention on account of our recent disaster because we still want it and we are going to get it."

"There is always a silver lining to every cloud, and we can see the dawn coming again to us, and we hope that you will assist us in getting Our Convention."

Yours truly,

HOWARD."

The invitation to hold the 1928 convention in Miami will be placed before the convention in Philadelphia, October 11-15. It is anticipated the 1927 convention will be held in Paris.

CENSUS OF CITY

Next Sunday the 10th of October the Baptist Sunday school will make a census of the city of St. Cloud. Beginning about 1 o'clock in the afternoon the workers will start from the Baptist church and enough of workers will be assigned to each of the divisions of the city to finish the work in about two hours.

While the work is being done by the Baptist Sunday school, this will be valuable information not only to all the religious denominations of the city, but will give a correct check on the population of the city. After the work has been completed the workers will turn over their cards to the general committee and a correct count will be made. The cards belonging to the other denominations will be turned over to the proper authorities.

If the public in general will cooperate with the workers, they can greatly facilitate the work by giving the information desired as soon as possible when the workers arrive. If some do not expect to be at home between the hours of one and three, it will be greatly appreciated if they will leave a note on the screen door saying how many in family, their names, to what church they belong, the denomination they prefer if they do not belong to any church, and the age of each in the family.

When the check is made the information regarding the population of the city will be open to the public and will be published in the local paper.
The citizenship of the city of St.
Cloud should co-operate and give our city the standing it should have.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH
Ivor G. Hyndman, D. D. Minister

Rally Day proved a most gratifying success. Every class reported a fine increase in attendance. A very interesting program was given by members of the primary department, the Adult Bible class and the high school class.
The souvenir for the youngest child present went to baby Russell, aged seven months. The present for the oldest present was awarded to Mr. Whitehead.

The vesper service for the Epworth League was featured by an address by Dr. Mary Pickett-Foster. Mrs. Foster was in splendid vein and made a lasting impression upon the minds and hearts of those present. Notes, duets, quartets and readings helped to make an interesting and inspiring time for all. Dr. Hyndman gave the inspirational hour.

Mrs. C. G. Kannel will be the soloist at the regular morning service next Sunday. There will be song service and an anthem in the evening.
A cordial invitation is extended to tourists and strangers to attend our Sunday school and church services.
We shall be glad to have you make your church home with us while you are away from home.

It has been a long time since a religious census has been taken of this city. The Baptist church and Sunday school under the leadership of Mr.
R. R. Steinwinder will undertake to make an entire canvass of the city next Sunday afternoon. The information thus obtained will be of great importance to all the churches and Sunday schools of the city.

Cards have been printed with the following seven questions to be answered: 1. Name; 2. Address; 3. Age especially children; 4. Are you now a church member? 5. Do you attend Sunday school? 6. What is your Denominational preference? 7. Local church preference?

It is greatly desired that this canvass be made as thorough and complete as possible, including every home in the city as well as every member of the family.

In order to complete the work in about two hours it will take about sixty workers and about twelve more with cars to reach the outlying districts.

The public in general is also asked to co-operate with the committee that the work may be as perfect as possible. Here is the plan. Immediately after the preaching service at the Baptist church next Sunday morning, lunch will be provided for all of the workers in the basement of the church.
Mr. Steinwinder will then assign captains over each district, and every worker will be given a certain street to work. Cars will be there to carry the workers to their starting place that the work may be finished as soon as possible. About 25 more workers are needed. Please report at the close of the morning service to Mr. Steinwinder if you are willing to help on the committee. About sixty will be needed altogether and about 10 or 12 that will offer cars to assist in the service.

When all the reports are in the cards will be distributed to the various posters according to the church preference given by the individual. The public in general can greatly assist in this important work by remaining home after dinner until the cards have been filled out, and if necessary to leave before, by writing on a piece of paper the answer to the above seven questions (for each member of the family) and placing the same on the front door that the committee can find it when they arrive.

The information obtained by a religious census of this kind will be of great benefit in many ways as well as furnishing the churches with the information they need.

Those who would like to help in this good work and are not able to work on the committee can assist by furnishing sandwiches, salad of some kind or even money to provide the lunch. The committee appointed to look after the lunch for the workers are as follows: Mrs. M. A. Hood, Mrs.
L. J. Eckley and Mrs. Clara Burdick.
Every worker is requested to make the canvass as thorough as possible, not missing a single home and should your home be missed for any reason you will consider it a special favor if you will send the answer to the above questions by mail to either Mr. R. R.
Steinwinder or to the pastor, Rev. Bert Arlowson that the record may be complete.

Read Road Bulletins Each Week
At Local Chamber of Commerce

Each week the Florida State Automobile Association sends out a bulletin to which the condition of the various routes through the state are discussed at length. Road surfaces, distances and suggestions as to alternate routes are given as well as information concerning the roads in Southern Georgia. In case of sudden storm a special bulletin is sent out promptly.
These bulletins are on file in the Chamber of Commerce and it is suggested that on even short local trips they be consulted as much time and discomfort may often be saved by following the hints given as to road conditions. Especially at the present when in some sections of the state road building is in progress and the effects of the storm are still felt, it will be of value to traveling motorists to consult these bulletins.

The state association is doing a splendid work for motorists throughout the state not only in its bulletin service, but in many other fields of endeavor connected with motoring as well, and the co-operation between it and the various Chambers of Commerce is a close one which results in much definite and up to date information.

THE JUNK PILE

& CAP

Come on fingers, time to do your stuff again and no waiting about it this trip. Bob sister ain't no friend to nobody no how, no get going, kid, get going, and the "cranking" that we write about last week was only because the typewriter needed oiling. We said the typewriter, not the guy that's running it. Get us right.

Flavor and Boyd in from Melbourne this week. They say the new course in that city is going to be opened shortly and suggested that some of us come over and show our stuff on the opening day.

Among other items from the city by the sea is that the Cross State road is worse between St. Cloud and Kissel-more than in any other section. Pretly soon the whole bottom will drop out and the detour will be the only available way out to the west. Seems like St. Cloud had about enough of that sort of thing last year.

And that same detour is some sassy road after a rain. How would it be to ask someone in authority to do a little something toward fixing it up if we and our guests must use that way to Orlando all winter?

A contributor suggests that if the hot air that has been loose around town for the past week or two could be bottled up and then turned on the waters of East Lake it would blow all our flood clean out of the lake and probably as far as the Georgian line, thereby solving the problem of the lake front and our Venetian roads.

"Gondolas?" shouted Alderman Bagginis from "de Nint Ward" in New York. "Gondolas, for why do we want to buy a hundred of them for Central Park? Let get a male and a female gondola and let Nature take its course."

Couldn't we do the same here? It might simplify the traffic problem for those who live on the lake front until such time as the water gets back somewhere near level, and what would be more romantic after a strenuous day in busy office than to be wafted in a gondola operated by a handsome oarsman with a red bandana round his head as he sang sweetly?

Among other sailors are Hawk-shine. A power boat of prodigious speed is being constructed. In fact it will be so fast that the helmsman will have to begin turning it around as soon as it leaves the club house to prevent its hitting the north shore of the lake.

They do say that the Editor has even out three perfectly good blue pencils on this alleged Colym already.
Some day he will wear out more than a pencil, and we will be fired but just think of the fun we are having in the mean time.

Did you see the cartoon in the Miami Herald of last Thursday? If you didn't get it and look it over and then see if it reminds you of anything county commissioners at a special meeting held August 25, 1926, concerning the highway through St. Cloud. A committee was appointed to take the matter up with the county commissioner to change the wording to read, "Through St. Cloud on 10th street."

CLARENCE BAILEY RE-
ENTERS GROCERY BUSINESS

During the last season Clarence Bailey sold his grocery business for the purpose of devoting his entire time to his real estate business and other interests. After a vacation from that line of business he had a "hankering" to re-enter it. His many patrons are pleased to welcome him back. He has leased the building formerly occupied by the Main grocery and has added attractive new front to the building made of green and white Poble dash which is a splendid addition to the attractiveness of this part of New York avenue. He has the largest line of groceries, fruits and vegetables in the city, and with the large opening which includes the entire front of the building is most appetizing and attractive.

that has happened right here in St.
Cloud during the past two weeks.

Couldn't you just tell that it was the first of October and that the bank thing had gone over. Look at the snap and pop of everyone on the streets.
Listen to the voices that you hear, no touch of despondency there. Things are beginning to roll our way again after a long trying summer when everyone had a right to an occasional attack of "nerves." What Mrs. Lester in the old days would have undoubtedly called a "C'rech de aert."

She was the originator of that fine old whom about her party "went up the Nile in their own private dia-beter," and when asked if her daughter was delicate replied "Oh, dear no, Most indelicate."

Anyway never mind what they do and say in Chicago. St. Cloud is the main thing with us, and St. Cloud is again proving for the hundredth time that it right. Right in its people, right in its civic pride right in its ability to do things in a big way in spite of obstacles that would put most communities flat on their back.

Miss Hammond reports this one; a new comer commiserated the fact that the Junk Man had no legs and wondered if he suffered much. No lady, I don't suffer at all, and there are legs attached to me somewhere even if it doesn't appear so, when I wear white stockings.

Another new golfer or rather another new man in town who likes to shoot golf is "Bob" Devine, who is going to make smooth our present rough side streets with a nice covering of concrete. He went down to Davenport last week and showed that his eye was in good working order, for he sure shoots them straight down the middle. Never mind who won. That's my business.

The junk man has been laboring under the suspicion for sometime back that he had enemies. Now he knows it. A terrible disaster has occurred to the Chamber of Commerce, and how this column is to be gotten out after this week is a puzzle for some miscreant has stolen up behind us and swiped the office shears. Now you may not know it, but no column can be operated without shears. More to be desired are they than ideas even.

(When did you ever have any, anyway? Editor). And so, dear friends unless somebody pays his Chamber of Commerce subscription thereby enabling the office to get a new pair, this column will be the end. The fact, let'er us, and all the rest of it.

Late flash: Able Assistant Chamber of Commerce has found scissors in kitchen. Suspicion points to the Editor of the Radio but positive proof is lacking.

So kind friends you will have to bear with this chatter for another week at least. (When did you ever have any friends? Editor).

I rise to call attention to the fact that it is not always women who get the last word. Look at all the come backs that that Editor guy pulls on me in the course of a week, and there is no chance to answer either.

What the World Is Doing

Typewriter with Many Keys Has Forty Alphabets

Taking rapid dictation directly on the typewriter, without the use of shorthand, is said to be possible with an instrument on which the inventor, a former court reporter, asserts he has attained a speed of 283 words a minute. It differs considerably from the usual typewriter, the board, for instance, having 1,160 keys which cover no less than forty alphabets. The machine is the result of twenty-five years of study.

Mystery of Ocean Currents Solved by Bottles

The second mate of the steamer's position, writes down the bearings on a slip of paper and stuffs it into a bottle which is corked and thrown overboard. Nearly a year later, the bottle, covered with barnacles, is washed ashore 1,450 miles away, is found and returned to the navy department, increasing the navy's knowledge of the mysterious ways of the ocean. What is said to be the most remarkable trip of a bottle was started from the British steamship "Australia" about 750 miles south and east of Africa. After three years, it was recovered off the coast of Chile, having traveled 8,500 miles.

Old Fallacies about Food Refuted by Doctors

Like hairpins, superstitions are handed down from generation to generation and some of them which have gathered about food and eating habits often have been detrimental to health, physicians assert. As an example, they cite the widespread belief that tomatoes thin the blood. This mistaken idea probably is the result of a queer mental twist. Tomatoes are red like blood and juicy, but thinner than blood, therefore they must thin the blood. But doctors declare that the fact is that the vegetables are exceedingly healthful and their juices are widely fed to babies, as a substitute for that of the orange, to promote growth. The belief that milk and acid fruits eaten together curdle in the stomach and therefore produce ill effects is also widely held. If they do curdle, doctors see no cause for alarm, because milk goes through this reaction with the gastric juice as soon as it reaches the stomach. Many women spend hours soaking cucumbers "to draw off the poison" without stopping to think that if the peel really were poisonous, the injurious substances would soak all the way through the cucumber. Special foods are in wide demand in some parts because they are said to be rich in helpful iron content. Ordinary lean meat, spinach, carrots, lettuce and egg yolk are considered sufficiently filled with iron to supply the normal body needs. That fish is a brain food is another common cooking delusion.

Deathrate over Forty Is Increasing

The gain in life expectancy is due largely to the saving of lives under thirty-five, according to Dr. J. Howard Board, of the university of Illinois, because the deathrate over forty is increasing. There are four more deaths per thousand persons between forty-five and fifty than twenty years ago, six more between fifty and fifty-five, and eight more at fifty-five to sixty. Better control of communicable diseases and decrease of infant mortality have lessened the dangers to younger persons, but the gain may be offset by the increasing number of fatal accidents.

Lens Mounted on Sewing Table

Eyes strain can be eliminated to some extent by attaching a reading glass to the sewing table. A spring and washer on a pivot screw serve to hold the handle of the glass against a beveled block and a small collar on the pivot screw enters a recess in the handle, as shown. The glass is removed by pressing it down from the catch and pulling it away from the pivot. When not in use, the glass is swung under the table top where it is safe. The beveled block should have such a slant that the lens will be held at an angle convenient for threading needles. Cloth, held on the knees, can be cut along a thread without strain, and certain knots in embroidery may be tied much more quickly.

FLORIDA-BOUND MOTOR TRAFFIC CROWDS ROADS

Fifty per cent motor tourists will come to Florida during July than came during the same month last year, it was estimated Wednesday at the Columbus Hotel, headquarters of the Miami Motor Club.

Railroads report greater travel to Miami so far during June than May, and George Oliver, district passenger agent of the Florida East Coast, said that at least 25 per cent more persons have come to Miami since June 1 than came during the same period in 1925.

Miami Beach hotel report that business is better at this time than for the last three months, and that guests are arriving in increasing numbers from all parts of the country.

"Very few of those now coming to Florida are of the fly can tourist type that were so thick last summer," said Mrs. Valetta Elliot, assistant secretary and treasurer of the motor club.

Reports from motor club offices throughout Georgia are that scores of tourist bound for Miami and other Florida cities are passing through that state. The reports say that the average tourist who is coming now gives every evidence of being more prosperous than the average of last summer.

She said all her reports bear out the check made by the Lake City Reporter last week. The newspaper found that 13,080 cars crossed Dixie and National Highways and the Tamiami Trail, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the preceding week. The newspaper reported a large percentage of the cars were headed south.

Lawrence Gilbert Holmes, editor of the Miami Motorist, official magazine of the motor club, said there has been a sharp decrease in the number of tourists going north.

At the Florida East Coast office, Mr. Oliver said he had not yet compiled exact figures, but that even the most conservative estimate would show that travel to Miami during June was greater than during the same month last year.

"June is leading May with us in both number departing and arriving," he said.

"We find that many of those who are coming are evidently planning to make Miami or one of its neighboring communities their permanent home. We also find that almost none of those leaving will stay away permanently."

T. N. Lockett, district passenger agent of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, said travel to Miami on that line during June is at least 10 per cent greater than it was during May.

"We are quite sure that we will bring more people to Florida this July than we did last," he said.

"We are going to run two special round trip excursion during the month. These will run direct from Washington. The Atlantic Coast Line probably will run two more.

"Judging from reports, business all along the line has shown great improvement."

Steamship lines generally report a more healthful tone in the passenger situation, but so far there has been no great increase in the number of persons coming to Miami by water. It was explained that this was because three vessels from New York are bringing almost the same number of passengers brought down last summer by four. During the winter, the steamers Kroonland and H. F. Alexander brought hundreds of passengers. They were much larger than any vessel now plying to Miami.—Miami Daily News

FLORIDA SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS CONSTITUTIONALITY OF LICENSE LAW

The Supreme Court of Florida in a decision just handed down upholds the constitutionality of Section 9 of the Florida real estate license law, the section which vests county judges with the power to revoke real estate licenses.

The decision was made on the ground that the quasi-judicial power conferred upon the county judges by the license law does not affect the constitutional jurisdiction of any other court, compatible with the express power conferred on these judges by the state constitution, which provides that they shall issue all licenses required by law to be issued in the county, and is a reasonable exercise of legislative power in the enforcement of salutary police regulations affecting the public welfare.

The Florida law provides that an complaint against real estate brokers or salesmen must be filed with the state real estate commission, which, after careful investigation, may, if the facts warrant it, bring the case before the county judge for a hearing, looking to suspension or revocation of his license. Any court having jurisdiction to try criminal offenses is given jurisdiction to try any violation of the real estate license act.

It is estimated that in 1925, the large total of $45,000,000 of outside capital was invested in Florida.

DODGE BROTHERS HAVE BUILT 1,750,000 CARS

Dodge Brothers Motor Car No. 1, 750,000 rolled from the assembly line Monday, August 23, at three o'clock p.m., just 11 years, 9 months and 9 days after the first Dodge Brothers car was completed. During this period the plant at Detroit has expanded from a scant 50 acres of floor space to cover 160 acres to which additions are constantly being made to care for increased demand.

Car No. 1,750,000, an all steel Special Sedan is the crowning achievement of nearly twelve years devoted to the constant improvement and refinement of a second basic design. The dates when Dodge Brothers output passed important production figures show clearly the continuously accelerated demand for the product. The first car was completed November 14, 1914. Two years, lacking 10 days, were required to build the first 100,000.

Car No. 500,000 was completed June 30, 1920; Car No. 750,000 July 21, 1922 and Car No. 1,000,000 on October 12, 1923. One million cars had been produced at the end of nine years and one month. The last 250,000 cars were built in 7 months and 9 days, the first 250,000 in 41 months and 12 days.

Car No. 1,500,000 left the line on January 14 this year and was shipped to the Albertson Motor Company of Los Angeles to take its place in the famous "Scout Fleet" consisting of Cars Nos. 300,000, 400,000, 500,000 and 1,200,000. These cars are in constant service on the highways of California laying out and re-checking tourist routes and investigating road conditions for newspapers and automobile clubs. The Albertson Motor Company has a standing order for each 300,000th Dodge Brothers car.

Many of their dealers have filed advance orders for cars which mark the completion of large round numbers in production. Car No. 1,750,000 was shipped to Frank Van Ryckle, Dodge Brothers Dealer at Perth Amboy, New Jersey. A record of having built 1,750,000 motor cars in 11 years, 9 months and 9 days is a record of production and sales policies. Undoubtedly the most important of the policies to which their success should be attributed is the one which always comes to mind at the mention of their name "Constantly improved, but no yearly models."

Only those who have driven a Dodge Brothers Special Sedan—or any Dodge Brothers car BUILT RECENTLY—can fully appreciate all that Dodge Brothers have accomplished during the past few months.

So swiftly has improvement followed improvement, that today the car, to all intents and purposes, is a different and incomparably finer vehicle.

The announcement of smart new body lines and attractive color combinations first attracted general favor. But since then, improvements even more fundamental have been accomplished mechanically.

Drive the car NOW! Observe its impressive new silence, smoothness and elasticity of performance, and you will then begin to realize just how vital and varied these and other later improvements actually are.

Florida Undertakes Greatest Highway Construction Feat Ever Done

Egyptians, Herodotus writes, built a road 10 feet thick, requiring the labor of 100,000 men for ten years; Caesar completed the Apian way, or "Queen of roads," some 100 years after it was begun by Claudius Appian, and in modern times engineers have carried to completion the National and Dixie highways, many times longer than those of the ancient and rapidly becoming standard in construction.

Yet it remains for Florida to contribute to history the greatest work of all in highway engineering, pre-eminent in scenic beauty and of unlimited possibilities from a commercial viewpoint.

The greatest highway construction feat ever attempted, which, when completed, will stand alone as the only boulevard of its unique nature in the world, is under way to connect the city and island of Key West, the most southern municipality in America, with the Florida mainland and is told graphically by a Tampa Tribune correspondent.

125 Miles Long
Between the two terminals of this proposed highway lies 125 miles of ocean and low, palm-bordered islets. There are ocean spaces between which the low islets almost fade from sight, and passes 30 feet in depth, through which the waters oft rush in a seven or eight-mile torrent at the greatest ebb or flow of the tides. The labor and engineering genius which are persevering through untold hardships that this boulevard between America's south sea islands may be more than a dream, may be forgotten, but the accomplishment promises to stand for centuries as even more important than Flagler's over-sea railway, which was hailed as the "eighth wonder of the world."

The over-sea highway, however, engineers have said, will not require as direct a route as that necessitated by Flagler's railroad, and it will take a greater advantage of the natural contour of the islands. But it will present the same vistas of the Atlantic ocean and the Gulf of Mexico, pass across beautiful keys and islets thickly clad with vegetation and bordered with palms, and disclose to the automobilist some of the greatest game fishing grounds in the world.

Nature Places Obstacles
The amazing nature of the feat can be realized, engineers say, only after one understands the natural elements that must be overcome. Deep, swift running tides, which exert a tremendous pull on the bridge foundations and other immovable objects; shifting sands that repeatedly change the plans of the engineers, and other forces of nature are planted squarely in the path of these pioneers in automobile marine construction.

While it is almost considered an impossibility for Monroe county to sell enough bonds to get $40,000,000 to spend on the highway as did the great Flagler on his railroad, Key West already has prepared to bear the burden of construction of all the road work and erection of the minor bridges and causeways. Franchises for the construction of toll bridges over the three large water gaps have been let by the Monroe county commissioners to the C. A. P. Turner Engineering company of Minneapolis.

With the bridging of Barnes sound complete, the Dixie highway will be extended by its over-sea highway to Key Largo, the largest of all the keys and one upon which the most development work is centering.

At Barnes sound, between the mainland and Key Largo, a 112-foot drawbridge has been constructed across the channel, which is divided by the central pier of the bridge. Nine foot headroom is provided when the bridge is closed, and despite the language of the heavy structure, one can operate the mechanism which opens the draw for large vessels.

Fills, embankments and roads of the keys are of soil which is said to average 90 percent lime, and can be dredged or siphoned from the sea bottom or flats. When exposed to the air it becomes so hard blasting is necessary to remove it. The average height of the roadbed above the water will be six feet.

Part of Road Ready
The road is now passable practically the entire length of Key Largo, a distance of 30 miles, and the water gap between the key and the mainland, four and a half miles in length, has been bridged.

The approach to the over-sea highway on Key Largo is being built by Dade county, as was part of the roadway over Barnes sound. Progress on this section was impeded for some time through difficulty in operating dredges in the lowlands.

The first link of the over-sea highway to be opened was the stretch from Key West across Stock Island to Boca Chico, including a drawbridge two miles long. Since the opening of this gap last fall, 10 miles of additional road and bridges have been opened and from Key West the motorist can drive as far north as Rinder Sound. There a bridge three miles long is rapidly nearing completion.

More than 60 miles of roads and bridges already have been constructed. Contracts have been let, and engineers are working night and day shifts, to push completion of the remainder of the road and minor bridge work.

Bond Issues Totalling $2,500,000 by Monroe County provides for this work. It has been roughly estimated by engineers that it will require $18,000,000 to build the toll bridges over the long water gaps.

Water Gap 57 Miles Wide
The longest water gap between Lower Matecumbe and Bahia Honda Key is said to be 37 miles wide. The second largest gap is found from No. Nine Key to Knights Key. This is 12 miles long.

The ultimate completion of the permanent over-sea highway as a paved road, 60 to 70 feet wide, with concrete and steel structure over all several years more, but the first structure will be safe and substantial, designed to serve generations. If necessary, engineers assure.

Dodging automobiles is not enough—now there is the danger of being hit by things dropped from airplanes. Two cases are reported lately of persons being injured by bottles being dropped from the ships of the air.

Last year the U. S. patent office issued 46,581 patents. Most persons should think twice before spending money on a patent.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HEAR REPORT ON NEW HEATING PLANT

The Chamber of Commerce meeting was well attended and seemed to take on new life by the return of members and visitors. A splendid spread was enjoyed by all present.

Mrs. M. Pickett-Foster presented R. R. Thompson, the new business manager of the St. Cloud Tribune. Dr. F. R. Seymour presented Dr. Shugart, who is his guest during the week. The doctor in very pleasant complimentary remarks congratulated St. Cloud on being so fortunate as to have the service of an optometrist.

Mr. Thompson, when called upon by the president, said he did not feel that he was a stranger here, as he had been coming here for some time and had good friends as well as considerable financial interests in this locality, and said he was pleased to be a part of what he termed "our community."

The monthly report was given by Secretary Kelsey, including some very interesting data from the State chamber of commerce.

President Landis spoke of the proposed heating of the tourist club house by an Arden heater, for the comfort and convenience of the tourists who spend their evenings here, and it is hoped that this can be a readiness for the season just opening. Mrs. Louise Bates Rosenthal and her assistants are making a canvass of the city for funds, asking only a $1.00 from each one which will make all feel they had a part in contributing to the comfort of our guests.

Another important matter has come to the president's notice and that is raising of the price of rent for rooms and apartments. We cannot expect to get Orlando prices and much real harm will be irreparably done. If this is not immediately adjusted, Mr. G. C. Hunter said that in the winter of 20 and 21 Miami placed such high value on rents that the winter of 21 and 22 even Miami with all its attractions suffered great loss by losing number of the tourists.

The time of making the drive for new members is approaching. Mr. Hunter suggested that an effort be made to secure members among the growers, as the all-important thing for the future growth of St. Cloud is the development of our back country. He said that while in conversation with Mr. H. B. Hedrick and John Padgett, he learned that each have planted ten acres of grove, and that in the last three years in this same section southeast of the city there have been 100 acres of groves planted. The imperative need of a working house is one thing we will have to face. This, of course, with the encouragement of other growers coming into this section, many of whom are seeking a location, means much.

He suggested that St. Cloud get behind this movement and that ground and money donations sufficient to make inducement be made. B. L. Rosen said that he was not the originator of the thought that we should join with Moore Haven in setting the state to give drainage assistance.

Prof. A. J. Geiger appealed to all for loyal support of the football team and desired if possible, those who could do so to attend the game here on Friday afternoon with Monteview, and a week from Saturday at Leesburg.

R. K. Thompson was elected to membership in the chamber of commerce.

INTER-STATE MEETING

The adjourned meeting of the Inter-State Association will be held at the club house in the city park next Tuesday afternoon, October 12th at 2 o'clock.

H. M. BENNETT, Sec.
